UNBOUND

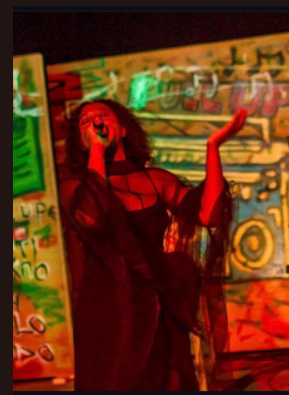

Iyabode creates emotionally immersive music rooted in African music, soul, alternative R&B, jazz textures, and experimental storytelling. Blending intimate and atmospheric sound into deeply reflective sonic experiences.

*As I unfold the adventure that I am,
I paint my mark on the canvas of your mind.

BIO

Rosaline Iyabode Johnson is a Sierra Leonean experimental artist whose work blends Sierra Leonean music, neo- soul, alternative R&B, jazz, and cinematic storytelling. Her art resists genre containment in favour of emotional precision.

Iyabode has performed across Sierra Leone, Morocco, the United States and Ghana with appearances at the Bizung school of Music and dance in Tamale, Berklee Gnaoua Festival, David Friend Recital Hall at Berklee College of Music, the Global Musicians Workshop in Boston, Jazz at Lincoln Center, the Zamane Festival in the Sahara Desert, AFCON stages in Casablanca, Visa For Music in Rabat and other locations.

Her music unfolds like moving images, delicate, reflective, and deeply human, inviting listeners into a safe circle of creativity and authenticity.

Iyabode
SINGER SONGWRITER

Rosaline Iyabode Johnson (@iyabode_roz) is a Sierra Leonean singer songwriter whose music compositions are heavily influenced by jazz, soul, and rhythm and blues. Her most recent songs paint the picture of a romance in Freetown: a hint of culture, of patriotism, of emotions and humor. Rosaline performs with the Groovy Colours Band at the Ballanta Academy of Music and her premiere EP called 'Inspireson' came out in February of this year.
